

annotation

In a report paper upon the subject of “Polyphenol Impact of the Turbidity of the Beer” is represented one of the problematic issues in beer production namely what the very problem is, its elimination methods and a brief conclusion as well.

The report includes 24 pages. It consists of: a table of contents, annotation; a brief introduction; the history of beer origin, the basic/body text, which is divided into chapters and sections; a brief conclusion; a bibliography/reference.

The report doesn't contain the results of an independent experimental research; the results of this research are given from supportive literature which was used while doing this very work.